Style Guides MLA Format

FIRST PAGE

FORMAT
Double space, and use a standard typeface and type size, such as 12-point Times New Roman.

TITLE
The title should be 12-point font and centered, but not underlined, italicized, bolded, or put in quotation marks.

BLOCK QUOTATIONS
Block quotations are quotations longer than four lines. Indent 1" from the set margin when using a block quotation. Do not use quotation marks, and put the period before the citation.

MARGINS
Use 1-inch margins on all 4 sides of each page.

WORKS CITED

TITLE
The title “Works Cited” should be centered, but not underlined or punctuated.

HANGING INDENT
Use a hanging indent for entries longer than one line. Indent 1/2" from the set margins after the first line of each entry.

SOURCES
List only the works you used, not everything you read.

ALPHABETICAL ORDER
Alphabetically arrange works cited entries according to the first word in the entry, ignoring a, an, and the.

Understanding Whitman’s Poetry
By examining sectional divisions in Walt Whitman’s Song of Myself, we can show that 1891 revisions underscore the function of each section as a unit of meaning governed by its own rhythm (Strach 64). Fred Mitchell calls this “group size pattern”:

Whitman is doing more than simply distributing a pattern of groups in some sensible fashion over the lines of a poem, creating what some critics are calling a groupline pattern. Whitman is also conscious of the size of his groups and of their progression in terms of size pattern. (16)

Such an analysis demonstrates the method governing Whitman’s formation of stanzas and the meter governing the lines and verses of

PAGE HEADER
A page header includes the last name of the paper’s author and the page number. Headers should appear in the top right corner of every page.

IN-TEXT CITATIONS
In-text citations should be used after quoting, paraphrasing, or summarizing. State the author’s last name and the page number in parentheses without a comma. If the author is named in the text, only cite the page number. If the author is unknown, use the first few words from the title. The period is placed after the citation. If there is no page number, include the author and title within the text rather than using a parenthetical notation.

CITING INDIRECT SOURCES
To cite information that your source has taken from a different source, put the original author of the information in the text and write “qtd. in” in your in-text citation followed by the author and page number of the work you found the material in. Example: (qtd. in Asay 352).

QUOTATIONS
If you need to make additions to a quotation, put your own words in square brackets []. To omit words, use ellipses (three periods, with a space after each). Example: “She was . . . unhappy.”

ABBREVIATIONS
Abbreviations in works cited entries are acceptable if they are clear (University Press=UP).
The following list includes some of the most common sources included in a Works Cited page. For more information, see pages 144-235 of the MLA Handbook for Writers of Research Papers, 6th edition.

BOOK BY A SINGLE AUTHOR

Last Name, First Name and Initial (if given). Title. Location: Publisher, Year.

BOOK BY TWO OR MORE AUTHORS

Last Name, First Name and Initial (if given), and First Name Last Name. Title. Location: Publisher, Year.

NOTE: If a reference has more than three authors, give the first author's name and "et al." Example: Jones, Bob, et al.

TEXT IN AN ANTHOLOGY OR EDITED BOOK

Last Name, First Name (of author of the article). "Article Title." Anthology Title. Ed. First Name Last Name (of editor). Location: Publisher, Year. pages.

ARTICLE IN A REFERENCE BOOK

"Article Title." Book Title. Edition Number. Publication Year.

ARTICLE IN A MAGAZINE

Last Name, First Name. "Article Title." Magazine Title Day Month Year; pages.

ARTICLE IN A JOURNAL

Last Name, First Name. "Article Title." Journal Title Volume Number (Year): pages.

ARTICLE IN A NEWSPAPER

Last Name, First Name. "Article Title." Newspaper Title (omit beginning articles) [Location (if newspaper is not national and the location is not named in the title)] Day Month Year, Edition Information: pages.

PERSONAL INTERVIEW OR COMMUNICATION

Last Name, First Name (person being interviewed). Interview type (Personal, Telephone, E-mail). Day Month Year.

Takyrbashev, Lewis P. E-mail interview. 8-12 June 2003.

DOCUMENT FROM AN INTERNET SITE (Include all information that is available and applicable.)

Last Name, First Name. "Document Title." If applicable, information about print source that the document comes from, following the format for that specific source type (see above examples). Site Title. Editor's name. Version or edition number. Date of electronic publication or last update. Name of sponsoring organization. Day Month Year (of access) <Network Address>.

WORK FROM LIBRARY SUBSCRIPTION SERVICE (The first part of the citation will vary, depending on whether the work comes originally from an online book, periodical article, etc.)

[See MLA Handbook, pages 216-224.] For works from print sources, give all standard information for such a source that is provided.

Specific source information (see above). Database Name (if known). Name of Service. Library Name. Date of Access <Network Address if known>.

APA Citation Quick-Reference Sheet

APA is the documentation style recommended by the American Psychological Association; it is used in many social science and related courses, such as education, political science, and sociology. (MLA documentation is usually preferred in the humanities.)

When using APA Style, cite the source of information in two places:
1. In the text, where the information appears
2. On the reference page included at the end of your work.

How to use in-text citations for APA

After each sentence that is researched from another source, put the author’s last name followed by a comma, and the year of publication in parenthesis.

Example: Asked to take part in a corporate study, 85% of students agreed to do so if they were paid (Burke, 1993). The author is Burke; the book was published in 1993.

How to format a reference page for APA

Your reference page should be a separate page entitled “References” (without the quotation marks) centered on the page. Entries on your References page should be alphabetized by first word of entry (in most cases, this will be the surname of the first author) with the first line of each entry against the left margin and any additional lines indented ½ inch (hanging indent).

Books

Journals

Articles in a Monthly Magazine

Articles in a Newspaper
Online Sources:

If you retrieved an article through a Database, what you got was an electronic copy of a journal, book, or newspaper article. The general recommendation from APA about citing electronic versions of articles based on a print source is to reference the work as described for the non-electronic version (described earlier), and then to add electronic retrieval information at the end of the citation. This electronic retrieval information may include either a uniform resource locator (URL) or a digital object identifier (DOI). The in-text citation follows the same pattern as other sources: cite the author name(s), followed by the year.

*Example of a journal article:

For a source such as an encyclopedia, include Author/editor. (Year). Title. In (Author/Editor of series), Source (edition). Retrieved from URL.

*Example of an encyclopedia entry:

If you found your article by doing a web search (such as Google), it might be a published article or it might be a web page. If it doesn’t tell you that it is a published article, you should assume it is a web page.

*Here’s the general format APA says to use to cite online information:

If you are citing a blog comment, a screen name may be used for an author name, in which case you would use the screen name.

Comparing Author-Date (e.g., APA, MLA) Systems to the Chicago Style Citation System

Chicago style refers to documentation systems that are commonly distinguished by the subjects that use them and differences in the ways they reference sources as follows:

1. Author-Date: This system is widely used by the social, physical, and the natural sciences. It uses parenthetical references to cite sources within the body of the text and includes a complete list of sources used on a References Page at the end of the paper. Examples of this system include APA, MLA, etc.

2. Notes and Bibliography System: This system is preferred by many in the humanities, including those in English, history, religious studies, philosophy, and the arts. This system uses Footnotes for references denoted by footnote numbers within the body of the text with the actual information about the work cited either listed at the bottom of the page (i.e., footnote) or at the end of the paper as endnotes. In addition, all sources used and consulted in the paper (i.e., perhaps not cited in the footnotes but still important in the creation of the paper) in a Bibliography at the end of the piece of writing. Please note that the difference between Chicago style and the Author-Date system described above is only a difference of formatting (i.e., how the information is presented in the text). The same rules apply in terms of when and why one cites sources.

| Single-space each entry and double-space between entries (unless your instructor prefers double-spacing throughout). |
Writing Chicago Style Footnotes and Bibliographical Citations

The following descriptions and examples show how to format sources using Chicago Style Footnotes or Endnotes and Bibliographical Citations. Once you have cited a source completely in a footnote or endnote, you may then use an abbreviated version of the footnote, but, given the number of editorial changes one generally makes, it might be wise to cite all footnotes and endnotes completely until the end of the writing process. Otherwise you risk orphaning your citations, rendering them useless. Once final editing is complete, consult the OWL website listed below for instructions on how to abbreviate footnotes or endnotes in Chicago Style.

Book (Print)

Single Author

Editor, translator, or compiler instead of author

Bibliographical Citation: Lattimore, Richmond, Translator. The Iliad of Homer. Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 1951.

Anthology

Footnote/Endnote: Print Anthology

Bibliography: Print Anthology

Footnote/Endnote: Online Anthology

BIBLIOGRAPHICAL CITATION: Online Anthology

Articles

Journal Article (Print)

FOOTNOTE/ENDNOTE: Article in a Print Journal
